of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934

Subject Company: Varian, Inc.

Commission File No.: 000-25393

The following is an email sent to Varian employees on behalf of Garry Rogerson, Varian's Chief Executive Officer and Bill Sullivan, Agilent's President and Chief Executive Officer, announcing the signing of an Agreement and Plan of Merger by and among Agilent, Varian and Cobalt Acquisition Corp.

Subject: Agilent Technologies to Acquire Varian, Inc., Expanding Options for Customers

Today we are pleased to share an important and exciting announcement. Varian has just signed an agreement to be acquired by Agilent Technologies. As many of you know, Agilent is a $5.8 billion company with 19,000 employees, serving both electronic measurement and bio-analytical measurement markets.

We both believe that our two companies will benefit by joining forces. Agilent has size, resources and global sales coverage that will enhance the growth of Varian businesses. Like Varian, Agilent has a long history as a technology leader and a solid reputation of integrity and dedication to customers. Together, our two companies can share and build on our complementary technologies. The possibilities go beyond technologies because, in addition, we each bring expertise across different geographies and applications. For instance, while Varian is well-established in energy and environmental applications, Agilent is a leader in food safety.

Our customers will clearly benefit. We will be able to provide them with the most comprehensive set of solutions across a wider range of industries immediately after the transaction closes. And we will be better positioned than ever to create innovative new products and services in the future.

Your knowledge and experience will be invaluable to the combined company as we go forward. Agilent and Varian believe we both have some of the best talent in the industry. Agilent's culture is casual and collaborative, and similar to Varian's in many ways. Both companies were Silicon Valley pioneers centered on innovation. And it is from that rich heritage that we will take the next step together in building the future.

We are both excited about today's announcement. We hope you will share our enthusiasm for the new opportunities that it presents for our companies and our employees.

Agilent expects the acquisition to be final before calendar year-end, subject to regulatory approval and customary conditions including approval by Varian's shareholders. Until then, please remember that we remain two separate companies and must continue to operate our businesses as usual. We know you will have many questions. We will provide further information and we will continue to provide you regular updates as we progress toward closing this deal.

Your efforts and those of Agilent employees have helped create two strong companies. Soon we hope that you will be part of a united entity providing the very best of the tools people need to protect and improve the world.
