Bluegrass Acquisition Project Q&A

Meaning/Purpose/Course/Background of this Project

Q1: For Mitsui, what is the main purpose/target for this project to acquire a major steel service center in the United States?

A1: Mitsui is pursuing this transaction to provide highly value added services which meet sophisticated and diversified requirements for our valued customers. Mitsui's long term business strategy consists of two linked functions marketing/logistics and investment. Upon consummation of the merger, Bluegrass is to be developed as a platform company to create a new business model.

Q2: What is the context/background that Mitsui decided to acquire Bluegrass?

A2: Bluegrass and Mitsui have an established relationship as strategic partners for 20 years. Based on this relationship, our mid/long term corporate strategies have been discussed. Both companies share similar growth oriented strategies and agreed to pursue this deal to further capitalize on each other's strengths.

Q3: In the steel service center business, what is the business relationship between Bluegrass and Mitsui?

A3: Bluegrass and Mitsui established a joint venture in 1987 called Mi-Tech Steel, Inc. Mitsui has 20 years of experience in the steel service center business with Mi-Tech. Mitsui has sold steel products mainly to Mi-Tech, Japanese automobile manufacturers, and Japanese automobile parts manufacturers.

Outline/Achievement of Bluegrass

Q4: Overview of Bluegrass? Financials?

A4: Bluegrass was established in 1971 and has been listed on NASDAQ since 1985. The company has successfully implemented growth strategies under strong management since its inception. Bluegrass, headquartered in Louisville, KY, operates 25 steel processing facilities, including its joint venture operations, throughout the U.S., Canada and Mexico. The current number of Bluegrass employees is approximately 1,000, not including joint ventures.

|------------------|----------|----------|----------|------------------|
| Sales amount | 765 | 958 | 876 | |
| Profit after tax | 35.4 | 36.7 | 14.7 | |

Q5: What has been Bluegrass's growth rate over the past 3 years?

A5: Refer to A4.

Activity/Achievement of Mitsui

Q6: What is Mitsui's steel service center business in the States? Strong points/weak points? Suppliers? Customers? Locations? Any synergy with this acquisition deal?

A6: The core business for Mitsui in the U.S. is the supply of high quality materials to new domestic automotive manufacturers through Mi-Tech. By acquiring Bluegrass, Mitsui plans to pursue other segments, namely in the non-Japanese automotive industry and the non-auto industry. For the supply mix, the main source will be Japan, U.S., Canada, and Mexico. In addition, Mitsui plans to enhance Bluegrass' product offerings through international trading/sourcing. For the time being, Mitsui will maintain current locations. If a strategic location is found, Mitsui will consider expansion opportunities. Mitsui recognizes marketing/logistics and investment as essential elements for business, and plans to combine investment with service for large OEMs (Demand Chain Management service etc.) to meet customers' requirements.

Q7: What is Mitsui's strategy for steel service center business? Global Strategy, Americas, Japan, Europe, Asias? What do you think about potential growth opportunity in each market?

A7: Mitsui recognizes the automotive industry as a strategic business area. Mitsui will continuously enhance its service center network catering to the auto industry globally. Mitsui expects growth in the North American market. Mitsui also recognizes the importance of the emerging markets. Mitsui currently operates 20 or so service centers in China including 10 steel service center facilities as a Joint Venture between Mitsui & Bao Steel.

Q8: How does Mitsui get return from this investment?

How much is estimated return for this merger?

When is contribution about consolidated profit after tax expected? And how much is it?

A8: A satisfactory return is expected from this business in relation to the investment. Bluegrass will be a meaningful platform company for the achievement of an increased sophistication in the trading business in the U.S. The estimated return from this merger will fulfill the investment criteria of Mitsui, and synergies with existing business and trading are also expected.

(* Note: We don't announce estimated contribution of consolidated profit after tax.)

Q10: Does Mitsui currently hold any Bluegrass shares?

A10: Yes. Bluegrass will be filing a proxy statement describing Mitsui's current Bluegrass holdings.

Merger Procedure of Bluegrass

Q11: How long have negotiations been going on?

A11: Bluegrass will be filing a proxy statement discussing negotiations leading up to the merger agreement.

Q12: What are the conditions to the transaction? When will this transaction be consummated?

A12: The transaction is subject to shareholder approval and regulatory review.

Q13: How will the transaction be financed?

A13: Mitsui plans to finance this transaction through its existing capital resources.

Q14: How will Mitsui's ownership change/improve Bluegrass?

A14: Mitsui and Bluegrass will pursue synergies with each other, aiming to create value added enterprises.

Q15: What will be the operating structure once the deal closes? Will Bluegrass be a subsidiary of Mitsui or will its operations be integrated into Mitsui's? Will Bluegrass be combined with other Mitsui properties or be run completely independently?

A15: Bluegrass will be a subsidiary of Mitsui. Bluegrass will be run independently for the time being, with other schemes considered in the future.

Q16: Will the current management team remain in place? Is Mitsui planning to dispatch personnel to Bluegrass? If so, how many? What position? And when?

A16: The current management team will continue to operate the business. Mitsui has confidence in the current management team, and will entrust management to them in principle, with the possibility of future dispatch of Mitsui personnel to Bluegrass.

Q17: Will there be layoffs after the transaction closes?

A17: There are no plans to layoff employees.

Q18: Are there any plans by Mitsui to divest any part of Bluegrass's operations?

A18: There are no plans to divest any material assets of Bluegrass. Mitsui will continue to review how to increase efficiency and maximize the synergies between Bluegrass and Mitsui.

Q19: How long, traditionally, does Mitsui hold its acquisitions?

A19: There are no plans to divest Bluegrass.

Q20: How do you intend to help Bluegrass improve efficiencies?

A20: The intention is to work with the current Bluegrass management team to increase efficiency and maximize the synergies between Bluegrass and Mitsui.

Steel processing center industry in the U.S. / Mitsui and other companies' work

Q21: Market size in the U.S./Global steel service center industry? Competition?

A21: Mitsui estimates the overall U.S. steel market size is approximately 60mil tons per year (including flat roll products and long products). Mitsui also estimates that the combined process volume of Bluegrass and Mi-Tech ranks No. 10 in the U.S. and No. 5 in the segment of high end steel products processing service center for the U.S. automobile industry.

Q22: What is the activity of other companies including trading companies in the field of steel service center business?

A22: There is no other Japanese trading company that has operational activities of this scale (Estimated to be No.10 in metal processing in the U.S.).

Q23: Is steel service center business for steel product processing in the States the first act as Japanese trading companies? Is there unprecedented point or originality?

A23: Japanese trading companies entered the steel service center business in the 1980s to serve the Japanese customers (electric appliances, automobile industry etc.) located in the U.S. Mitsui established Mi-Tech Steel Inc., a steel service center, as a joint venture with Bluegrass. The Bluegrass project is unique in that it is a very large step for a Japanese trading firm to expand its service center presence to 25 facilities in North America including the U.S., Canada and Mexico with a high proportion of automobile customers (over 50%). Automotive customers require sophisticated processing and for Bluegrass these customers represent high value added business.

Q24: Is there any environmental or other risk for steel service center business?

A24: There are none known. Appropriate environmental due diligence was conducted.

Mitsui's future strategy

Q25: Are you planning any merger/investment project in the other field of iron and steel products in future?

A25: Mitsui does not comment on speculation.

Q26: How will this deal change the way Mitsui does business in North America?

A26: Good synergies between Mitsui & Bluegrass will be pursued.

Q27: What are your expectations for Bluegrass?

A27: Bluegrass should have more advantages in this field due to the value added facilities and the synergistic effects of the merger.

Q28: Are you poised for more acquisitions in North America, elsewhere?

A28: Expansion will be pursued with good investment opportunities.
