INFORMATION TO BE INCLUDED IN THE REPORT

Section 1 Conflict Minerals Disclosure

ITEM 1.01 Conflicts Minerals Disclosure and Report

Ambarella, Inc. ( Ambarella ) is a fabless semiconductor provider of low-power, high-definition (HD) video compression and image processing semiconductor solutions. Ambarella's system-on-a-chip (SoC) solutions are used in a variety of HD cameras, including IP security cameras, wearable sports cameras and automotive video camera recorders. In addition, Ambarella's video compression SoCs also are used in television broadcasting equipment.

Ambarella has determined that conflict minerals are necessary to the functionality or production of its products. Conflict minerals are defined by the SEC as columbite-tantalite (coltan), cassiterite, gold, wolframite, or their derivatives, which are limited to tantalum, tin, and tungsten. As a fabless semiconductor company, during 2013, Ambarella contracted for the manufacture of products containing conflict minerals but did not directly manufacture products containing conflict minerals.

Ambarella conducted a reasonable country of origin inquiry regarding conflict minerals used in its products. That reasonable country of origin inquiry was designed to determine whether conflict minerals present in Ambarella products originated in the Democratic Republic of the Congo or an adjoining country (collectively defined as the Covered Countries ) or arose from recycled or scrap sources.

After exercising due diligence applying guidance from the OECD Due Diligence Guidance for Responsible Supply Chains of Minerals from Conflict-Affected and High-Risk Areas (OECD 2011), Ambarella has concluded that it is unable to conclusively determine whether its products contain conflict minerals that originated in any of the Covered Countries or arose from recycled or scrap sources.
