Item 5.02(d). Departure of Directors or Certain Officers; Election of Directors; Appointment of Certain Officers; Compensatory Arrangements of Certain Officers.

On October 18, 2007, the Board of Directors of The Coca-Cola Company (the “Company”) increased the size of the Board to 12 members and elected Alexis M. Herman, former U.S. Secretary of Labor, as a Director of the Company, effective immediately. Secretary Herman was also appointed to the Public Issues and Diversity Review Committee of the Board.

Secretary Herman was the chairperson of a seven-person independent Task Force created to monitor the Company’s compliance with the November 2000 discrimination lawsuit settlement. She was formally appointed under a court-ordered process by both the Company and plaintiffs’ counsel. Under the leadership of Secretary Herman, the Task Force worked with the Company to identify areas where the Company could improve its human resources programs and practices, and each year, assessed the Company’s progress on specific human resources initiatives. The fifth and final Task Force Report was submitted on December 1, 2006. The court’s order required the Company to compensate members of the Task Force for their work and pay their administrative expenses. In 2006, Secretary Herman was paid $125,000 for her work as chairperson of the Task Force. Also in 2006, the Company paid New Ventures, of which Secretary Herman is Chair and Chief Executive Officer, approximately $75,000 for administrative expenses, including staff assistance, and travel expenses related to her work on the Task Force.

A copy of the Company’s press release announcing Secretary Herman’s election to the Board is attached to this report as Exhibit 99.1 and is incorporated herein by reference.
