Rating Action: Philippine Long Distance Telephone Company

Moody's reviews PLDT's Baa3 local currency rating for possible upgrade

Hong Kong, April 11, 2007 --Moody's Investor Services has today placed the Baa3 local currency corporate family rating of the Philippines Long Distance Company (PLDT) on review for possible upgrade. At the same time, Moody's has affirmed PLDT's Ba2 foreign currency bond rating with a stable outlook.

"The review has been prompted by a continued improvement in PLDT's financial profile and the consolidation of its strong operating performance," says Laura Acres, a Moody's Vice President.

"The company holds a 58% subscriber market share in the Philippines wireless market and 63% in the fixed-line business, both of which contribute to PLDT's healthy free cash flow generation capabilities," adds Acres, also Moody's lead analyst for the company.

The review will focus on: 1) growth prospects at the consolidated level; 2) PLDT's ongoing capex requirements for maintenance and rollout of next generation technologies; 3) its financial policies over the next two years especially with regard to leverage and uses of cash; and 4) the company's liquidity risk profile.

Moody's affirmation of PLDT's foreign currency bond rating reflects the fact that the rating is unlikely to rise without either an improvement in the Philippines foreign currency country ceiling or a significant improvement in PLDT's local currency rating.

PLDT's foreign currency bond rating of Ba2/stable is above the Philippines' foreign currency country ceiling of Ba3/stable. The foreign currency rating incorporates convertibility risk, which is the likelihood of the government declaring a debt moratorium to counter a foreign currency crisis. Moody's considers foreign currency bonds subject to international law as less likely to be affected by a debt moratorium than those bonds covered by local law. Hence, the differential between PLDT's foreign currency bond rating and the country ceiling.

As such, PLDT's foreign currency bond rating is a result of: its own risk of default; the probability of a Philippines government default on its foreign debt (implied by its B1 rating); the likelihood that the government would declare a moratorium in the event of a default; and if it did, the chance that it would exempt a company such as PLDT.

Headquartered in Manila and listed on the Philippine Stock Exchange, PLDT is an integrated provider of fixed, broadband and cellular services. PLDT has more than 27 million subscribers and is the leading telecommunications service provider in the Philippines. It has an approximate 58% market share for cellular telephony and 63% for fixed-line services.
