Section 1 - Conflict Minerals Disclosure

Item 1.01 - Conflict Minerals Disclosure

DENTSPLY International Inc. (the “Company”) has conducted the reasonable country of origin inquiry required by Item 1.01(a) of Form SD. Based on this reasonable country of origin inquiry, the Company has determined that it has no reason to believe that any Conflict Minerals (as that term is defined in Item 1.01(d)(3) of Form SD), that are necessary to the functionality or production of a product manufactured by the Company or contracted by the Company to be manufactured and are required to be reported on in this Form SD, may have originated in the Democratic Republic of the Congo or an adjoining country.

The Company took a number of steps in conducting its reasonable country of origin inquiry. These steps were designed based on the Company’s particular facts and circumstances. As an initial matter, the Company first identified those products (the “Identified Products”) manufactured by the Company or contracted by the Company to be manufactured that it reasonably believed, in good faith, could potentially contain Conflict Minerals. The Company then identified the suppliers of the Identified Products (or, for those Identified Products manufactured by the Company, suppliers of identified parts or components, together with the Identified Products, the “Supplies”) and surveyed these suppliers to determine whether the suppliers believed that the Supplies contained Conflict Minerals, and if so, whether such Conflict Minerals were necessary to the functionality or production of the Identified Products. For those Supplies that the Company determined contained Conflict Minerals and for which such Conflict Minerals are necessary to the functionality or production of the Identified Products, the Company sent out questionnaires to the suppliers of those Supplies based on the Electronic Industry Citizenship Coalition Global e-Sustainability Initiative Conflict Minerals Template. Thereafter, the Company took additional steps to contact those suppliers who did not complete the questionnaire. As of the date of this report, 87% of these suppliers contacted had completed the questionnaire. The Company did not receive information from any of the suppliers contacted that provided a reason to believe that any of the Identified Products contained Conflict Minerals that are necessary to the functionality or production of the Identified Products and that originated in the Democratic Republic of the Congo or an adjoining country.
