DO NOT VOTE FOR THE MSB FINANCIAL CORP. STOCK BENEFIT PLANS

January 9, 2008

Dear Fellow MSB Financial Corp. Stockholder:

You may have already received, or in the next few days or so you should receive, a proxy statement from MSB Financial Corp. (MSB Financial), in connection with their Annual Meeting scheduled for February 11, 2008. In that proxy, we anticipate that MSB Financial will solicit your vote to approve certain stock benefit plans that would allow MSB Financial to issue lucrative grants of stock and options to the management, board and employees of MSB Financial (the Plans). If MSB Financial puts the Plans up for stockholder approval at the Annual Meeting, as we anticipate, then you will receive a proxy statement from the PL Capital Group opposing approval of the Plans. It is important that you do not cast a vote on any proposal to approve the Plans until you have an opportunity to read both PL Capital's and MSB Financial's proxy. PL Capital plans to vote AGAINST any proposal to approve the Plans and urges you to also vote AGAINST any proposal to approve the Plans.

Who is the PL Capital Group and why do we oppose any proposal to approve the Plans? The PL Capital Group consists of various investment entities which focus exclusively on investments in banks and thrifts such as MSB Financial. The PL Capital Group beneficially owns an aggregate of 422,973 shares of MSB Financial's total outstanding common stock. PL Capital is MSB Financial's largest stockholder, excluding shares held by MSB Financial, MHC (the MHC). PL Capital owns approximately 7.5% of MSB Financial's total outstanding common stock and 16.7% of the common stock held by the public (namely, the common stock held by stockholders other than the MHC).

We oppose any proposal to approve the Plans because we believe that the type of benefits that could be granted pursuant to the Plans should be earned, not granted simply because MSB Financial is now publicly traded. In our opinion, MSB Financial has not yet demonstrated sufficient financial performance to justify authorizing the company to issue lucrative grants of stock and options to its management, board and employees.

Please note that we are not permanently opposed to approval of such Plans. We met with MSB Financial's management on several occasions in 2007 and in a recent meeting we gave them a template of actions they should take to enhance stockholder value before we would support approval of any such Plans. The suggested actions include:

- Earning a Return on Equity of at least 5%;
- Repurchasing up to one-third of the outstanding common stock (held by the public) over the next few years, with most of that frontloaded into the next 12-18 months while the stock price is attractive;
- Increasing the cash dividend annually until such time that the payout ratio is 100%; and
- Paying those cash dividends to the public stockholders (with the MHC waiving the right to the dividends, as allowed by MSB Financial's regulators).

Based upon projections prepared by the PL Capital Group (the achievement of which cannot be assured), which were provided to MSB Financial, we project that if MSB Financial follows the template set forth in our projections, then the company should be able to pay a cash dividend to stockholders of $0.36 in 2008, $0.56 in 2009, $0.88 in 2010, $1.09 in 2011 and $1.21 in 2012. We believe that these types of actions are necessary to significantly increase long term stockholder value and urge stockholders to vote against any proposal to approve the Plans until such time as the company implements these actions. If MSB Financial implements these actions aggressively in 2008, we are likely to vote for any such Plans at the next annual meeting in 2009, but for now, we cannot support the approval of any such Plans. We hope you agree and urge you to vote AGAINST any proposal to approve the Plans.

Any proposal to approve the Plans would require, assuming a quorum is present, an affirmative vote of a majority of the common stockholders who vote (other than the MHC), SO YOUR VOTE COUNTS. The proxy materials will contain information on how to vote and other important
