Attunity Connect Adapters First to Pass Certification for Microsoft BizTalk Server 2004

Tuesday March 2, 4:35 pm ET

Certification Program Led by Unisys Ensures Seamless Interoperability

WAKEFIELD, Mass., March 2 /PRNewswire-FirstCall/ -- Attunity (Nasdaq: ATTU - News), a leading provider of standards-based integration solutions for accessing mainframes, enterprise data sources and legacy applications, announced today that its Attunity Connect(TM) Adapter Suite has passed the official certification program established for Microsoft BizTalk Server 2004. The Microsoft BizTalk 2004 certification program, which is administered by Unisys Corporation, tests and validates interoperability between Microsoft BizTalk Server 2004 and Attunity's integration adapters. Attunity is the first of Microsoft's Adapter Partners to complete the certification program.

"Clients tell us they are looking for end-to-end integration solutions that ensure interoperability and reduce risk. This is what our certification program is all about," said John Huygens, senior manager, solutions and services, for Unisys Corporation. "The rigorous testing we've put the Attunity product through demonstrates that Attunity is serious about delivering the kind of compliance, ease of use, performance and reliability, that enterprises need to solve legacy integration challenges." Upon completion of the certification program, customers can be assured that products are 'enterprise ready,' and will perform under the stress of production operations. In addition, participation in the certification process successfully identifies ISVs that are committed to assuring the quality of their software products.

The Attunity Connect Adapter Suite for Microsoft BizTalk Server 2004 is designed to extend the reach of BizTalk Server 2004 to mainframe, host and legacy data sources. The Attunity Adapter Suite supports the advanced features introduced in the BizTalk Server 2004 adapter framework, and provides bi-directional integration with legacy data and applications running on mainframe, AS/400, HP NonStop, OpenVMS, Unix systems and Windows platforms.

"Microsoft worked together with Unisys to develop the adapter certification program and to ensure that it would guarantee the high level of interoperability that our customers expect and demand," said Matt Mulligan, product manager at Microsoft. "We are pleased that Attunity has moved aggressively to pass the adapter certification process, as this speeds our customers' abilities to capitalize on the value of their integration projects."

The Unisys certification program for Microsoft BizTalk Server 2004 is designed for independent software vendors (ISVs) and systems integrators that develop and market add-on products or solutions for use with Microsoft BizTalk Server 2004. The certification process focuses on critical product areas such as BizTalk

Server adapter framework compliance; setup and installation; serviceability, reliability, load and stress; recoverability; and usability. As part of the certification process, products are put through a stringent series of tests to detect deficiencies that could cause interoperability issues in a production environment.
