the Company's Chief Financial Officer, Victor M. Suglia on a leave of absence. Management and the Board are considering their alternatives with regard to an interim Chief Financial Officer.

On October 29, 2003, Friedman's was advised by the Securities and Exchange Commission that the SEC has issued a formal order of a private investigation with respect to the Company. As previously disclosed, on September 8, 2003, Friedman's was contacted by the SEC and informed that the SEC had opened an informal inquiry into the allegations contained in a lawsuit filed against Cosmopolitan Gem Corporation (a former vendor of Friedman's) and a number of other defendants, including Friedman's, Crescent Jewelers and Whitehall Jewellers by Capital Factors, Inc., a former factor of Cosmopolitan. The formal investigation has been expanded and also includes a review of the Company's allowance for doubtful accounts and other financial matters and seeks to determine whether Friedman's may have issued materially false or misleading disclosures under the Securities Act of 1933 and Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and whether there are possible violations of the internal controls and books and records provisions under the Exchange Act, for the period January 1, 2000 through the present. In addition, the Company announced that the previously reported investigation by the United States Justice Department into the Capital Factors matter has been expanded to include a review of the Company's allowance for doubtful accounts and other financial matters.
