On June 7, 2010, FirstEnergy Corp. issued the following newsletter to its employees relating to the proposed merger with Allegheny Energy, Inc.

Merger Applications Filed with States and FERC

FirstEnergy and Allegheny Energy recently filed applications with the appropriate regulatory agencies, providing information about our proposed merger.

Our recent joint filings are significant steps in this merger process, says FirstEnergy President and CEO Tony Alexander. The applications enable regulators and other interested parties to understand our commitments in each state and the benefits this merger will provide customers and communities if the regulators approve our application and the merger is completed.

Regulatory bodies responsible for approving the proposed merger have specific requirements that needed to be addressed in our filings. We filed merger applications on May 11 with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC), with the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania on May 14, with the state of West Virginia on May 18 and with Maryland on May 27. We completed our state filings with our application to the Commonwealth of Virginia on June 4. Each company also filed Hart-Scott-Rodino applications with the Federal Trade Commission and Department of Justice on May 25.

Integration Teams BEGIN WORK

Integration teams began their work at the end of April, after a kickoff that included remarks by Tony Alexander and Allegheny Energy Chairman, President and CEO Paul Evanson.

Understand that you are representing more than 17,000 employees of both companies and that as you perform your integration work, they are focusing on the equally important task of running the day-to-day business to make sure we have a solid base to start our new company. Your primary task is to determine how we can improve the performance of the new FirstEnergy, Tony said.

FERC Application for Merger Authorization

In the FERC filing, a primary focus is on ensuring that our merger will not adversely affect competition. To address this, our FERC filing included a market power study performed by an outside consultant. The market power study determines whether our combined company would have so much product to sell into PJM Interconnection, L.L.C. Allegheny's Regional Transmission Organization (RTO) and the RTO into which FirstEnergy's ATSI* transmission affiliate is in the process of integrating that it would have certain advantages, such as influence on setting prices, which in turn can impact competition. The analysis of the new FirstEnergy's competitive generation fleet concluded that the proposed merger will not have an adverse effect on competition in the PJM wholesale markets.

State Merger Approval Applications

Although specific requirements vary by state, our merger filings addressed common topics such as general reliability, community support and employee matters. It's important to note that state merger filings address only utility topics, since the utilities are regulated by the state commissions; competitive generating plant operations are not addressed.

For example, our Pennsylvania state filing includes a commitment to utilities jobs. It states there will be no net job reductions for two years due to involuntary attrition through the merger process for either FirstEnergy Utilities or Allegheny Energy Service Company employees assigned to positions in West Penn Power Company Allegheny's Pennsylvania utility comparable to their FirstEnergy counterparts.

We also committed to applying FirstEnergy's utility regional model an important consideration for local decision making to West Penn Power. Additionally, West Penn Power's regional headquarters will be in Greensburg, Pa. Other commitments include maintaining service reliability standards, supporting economic development and community initiatives and establishing an additional Power Systems Institute (PSI) school to train the next generation of utility workers. State information sheets are available that provide additional details on our commitments in each state if our proposed merger is approved and completed.

* ATSI is American Transmission Systems, Inc., FirstEnergy's transmission affiliate. ATSI has signed an agreement to join the PJM Interconnection, L.L.C., an RTO. An RTO, among other duties, operates and plans the transmission system.

Teamwork will be an essential ingredient as you capture the best practices from each company. It will take everyone working together to find ways to reduce costs and improve quality – the hallmarks of a high-performance organization, remarked Paul.

During the full team kickoff meeting, Chair of the Merger Steering Committee and Executive Vice President and President, FirstEnergy Generation Gary Leidich said, “We don’t know what all the answers are yet. But we do know this is quite an opportunity to create a better, stronger company.”

It will be rewarding for all of us to be able to step back when the merger is completed and we start off as the new FirstEnergy and say, “We did a pretty good job of putting these companies together.”

Allegheny lead for the Merger Steering Committee and Chief Operating Officer, Generation Curtis Davis said, “Although all of us have a long history of experience and biases, you will need to accept others’ ideas and make sure we’re making decisions based on data, fact and analysis. We have many stakeholders – our employees, communities and shareholders – who are relying on all of you to improve the performance of these companies and create a better company.”

Additional speakers discussed the process the teams would follow to document preliminary recommendations and reminded the attendees that during this process, information must remain confidential and we must continue to operate as separate companies.

Since the kickoff meeting, the teams have been working at Summit Park Square in Akron to validate base case information and begin their analyses. Legal “rules of the road” have been provided to every employee working on the integration project.

Team members await the next presentation.

Questions and Answers

Q One of the FAQs in the last Merger News stated that Allegheny Energy employees would be fully vested in their accrued defined pension benefit when the merger is completed. In which plan will we be fully vested? Allegheny's plan, FirstEnergy's plan, or a combination of both and how will it work? One of my employees will turn 55 next January and is concerned that he will not have the same retirement options after the merger is complete.

A If an Allegheny Energy employee is vested in the Allegheny plan when the merger is completed, he or she will remain vested in the Allegheny plan. Allegheny employees who are not vested when the merger is completed will retain the service they have earned toward vesting and will become vested once they have five years of Allegheny and FirstEnergy combined service. Recommendations regarding the coordination of the Allegheny pension plan and FirstEnergy pension plans after the merger will be determined through the Integration Teams and communicated once finalized.

Q What happens if I sell my Allegheny Energy stock prior to the merger? Will I still receive the FirstEnergy stock based on what I owned on Feb. 10, 2010, or do I need to keep the Allegheny Energy stock until the merger process and exchange of shares is completed to receive the FirstEnergy stock?

A FirstEnergy and Allegheny Energy will function as separate companies until the merger closes, including the ownership of shares. If you sell your Allegheny stock before the effective time of the merger—that is, when the merger officially closes—you will not be entitled to receive FirstEnergy stock in connection with the merger. At the effective time of the merger, each share of Allegheny common stock issued and outstanding immediately prior to the effective time will be converted into the right to receive 0.667 of a share of FirstEnergy's common stock. Additional details are provided in the Registration Statement on Form S-4 filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Q Several Allegheny Energy locations are OSHA Voluntary Protection Programs (VPP) star-certified worksites that participate actively in the program. Will the OSHA VPP in place at Allegheny Energy locations continue after the merger's completion?

A The Integration Teams will be evaluating the process and plan for VPP, including the currently certified locations. The teams will evaluate the effectiveness of all safety programs, including VPP.

Q Are there plans to develop a Safety Integration Team?

A The Human Resources Integration Team has the lead role, but each team that has safety as an integral part of operations also will address safety as part of the integration planning.

Q I've been in the union and now am transitioning into management. I have a bachelor's as well as a technical degree and plan on pursuing my master's in August, which brings me to my two questions: Will the combined company continue to offer education benefits? Will chances to advance one's career be more attainable through this merger, or will it diminish these chances?

A The new company's larger size and scope will provide increased opportunities for employees. Currently, both companies offer education benefits, and the Human Resources Integration Team will make recommendations concerning the education benefits that will be offered following completion of the merger.

Q Does FirstEnergy have a Political Action Committee (PAC)?

A Yes. Like Allegheny Energy, FirstEnergy has an employee-supported PAC. The Corporate Services Integration Team is charged with reviewing our processes related to the PAC.

Q Would there be possibilities of transferring from my station to the station in Erie, Pa.?

A For union employees, the ability to transfer is governed by the applicable collective bargaining contract, so employees should review their contracts to understand the transfer requirements. For other employees, the ability to transfer is governed by the available positions and the candidates available to fill those positions.

As noted above, expect many opportunities to develop in our larger company.

Q I am uncertain of the status of the Allegheny Ridge I and Allegheny Ridge II Wind Power Projects (part of the FirstEnergy SmartWind Initiative). If they are active, how will the merger affect them?

A Both projects are operating: Allegheny 1 (80 megawatts, or MW) since 2007 and Allegheny 2 (70 MW) came online in 2009. While we will continue our commitments and strategy for renewable energy, it is too early to know how the merger might affect those projects.
