FINAL TRANSCRIPT

Jun. 04. 2008 / 9:00AM, PG - Smucker - Folgers Merger*Tim Smucker - The J.M. Smucker Company Chairman & Co-CEO

Thank you, Mark and good morning, everyone and thank you for joining us. We are pleased to announce a truly remarkable transaction that brings one of America's best-known brands into the Smucker family of brands and allows us to offer consumers yet another number one brand in a key category.

We have reached an agreement with Procter & Gamble to merge the Folgers coffee business into the Smucker company. We are proud to welcome the Folgers and Millstone brands into our widely recognized portfolio of brands that includes Smucker's, Jif, Crisco, Pillsbury, Eagle Brand, Hungry Jack, Robin Hood and Bick's.

Folgers, founded in 1850, is similar to our core brands with a rich heritage, high-quality product offerings and strong consumer loyalty. Over the years, Folgers has created some of the most memorable marketing and advertising messages, including the well-known tagline "the best part of waking up is Folgers in your cup".

As you well know, our company and people are about more than making and marketing products. Indeed at Smucker, our purpose is to help families share memorable meals and moments. The Smucker family of brands is a trusted part of everyday meals, casual get-togethers and special occasions, all of which foster family connections and lasting memories. Folgers has a long tradition of being part of memorable meals and is undoubtedly a perfect fit in our family of brands. A freshly brewed cup of coffee is the perfect complement to breakfast or desert, two areas we know a lot about. Not surprisingly, these categories share very similar core consumer segments, opening up many opportunities for brand marketing strategies.

Let me briefly discuss the rationale behind the transaction and why we are so enthusiastic about the Folgers business. First, it is a great strategic fit. As the number one retail packaged coffee brand in the US, the addition of Folgers clearly aligns with our strategy to own and market number one food brands in North America.

Second, the addition of Folgers strengthens our portfolio of brands, adding our 10th number one brand. We will cross a new threshold in terms of size and scale with the addition of our $1 billion brand.

Third, the transaction is value-creating and financially compelling. For Smucker, the transaction will be accretive in a full-year basis, increases annual net sales to almost $5 billion in the first full year, expands margins and increases earnings and significantly increases free cash flow.

With the addition of Folgers, the size of the categories in which we participate increases to approximately $15 billion. Coffee, light fruit spreads, peanut butter, cooking oils and flour are staple items included in more than 80% of household pantries. We will be well-positioned for the long term to meet a wide variety of consumer needs. This powerful combination provides us with increased size and scale that will benefit all of our businesses, position us for future growth and deliver long-term shareholder value.

Smucker and Procter & Gamble have a proven track record of working together. We added P&G's Jif and Crisco brands in 2002 and demonstrated our collective ability to transition the business. We are confident that Smucker is a great home for Folgers brands and the Folgers people. And we expect both to prosper as part of the Smucker family of brands. The combination will provide greater opportunities for all employees, both existing Smucker employees and the Folgers employees. Now I would like to turn the call over to Richard to provide some additional transaction details and the financial benefits.

Richard Smucker - The J.M. Smucker Company President & Co-CEO

Thank you, Tim and good morning. First, let me say that I share Tim's enthusiasm as we add one of America's best-known brands into the Smucker family. We look forward to building upon its heritage and equity.

FINAL TRANSCRIPT

Jun. 04. 2008 / 9:00AM, PG - Smucker - Folgers Merger

Now let me describe the transaction. It will be structured as an all stock reverse Morris Trust transaction that is tax-free to Smucker, P&G and P&G shareholders. P&G shareholders will receive approximately 63 million Smucker shares and own 53.5% of the combined company. Current Smucker shareholders will own approximately 46.5% of the combined company. At the completion of the transaction, Smucker's will have approximately 118 million shares outstanding. As part of the transaction, Smucker will assume 350 million of Folgers' debt.

Prior to the merger, Smucker shareholders, as of the record date, will receive a special dividend of $5.00 per share.

The transaction is expected to close in the fourth quarter of calendar 2008, subject to customary closing conditions, including regulatory and Smucker shareholder approvals.

We expect to incur approximately $100 million in one-time costs related to the transaction over the next 12 to 24 months. We expect synergies in excess of $80 million with a portion of these savings realized during fiscal 2009 and the entire amount by the end of fiscal 2010. Most of these savings will be achieved through efficiencies gained by combining the businesses and supply chain enhancements.

As part of the transaction, we expect our debt to increase by approximately $650 million. Due to the nature of the reverse Morris Trust structure, Smucker's will have a stronger balance sheet with a conservative leveraged portfolio or profile as our debt to equity ratio will be below two times.

Free cash flows are expected to be approximately $400 million and will allow Smucker to continue its strong dividend practice and continue to make strategic acquisitions and to repurchase share.

The merger provides significant financial benefits. Assuming Folgers was owned for all of fiscal 2009, net sales are expected to increase to approximately $4.7 billion. We expect the transaction to be accretive by approximately 9% to fiscal 2009's earnings per share, including the synergies and excluding merger and integration costs and after giving effect to the impact of the special dividend to Smucker shareholders.

The profit contribution from Folgers, along with full synergy benefits, are expected to result in EBITDA of approximately $820 million. This represents an increase in the EBITDA margin of nearly 300 basis points. Results for fiscal 2009 will depend on the actual closing date. Assuming the transaction closes early in the fourth quarter of fiscal 2008, we expect 2009 net sales of approximately $4 billion. Fiscal 2009's earnings per share before one-time costs associated with the transaction of between $3.45 to $3.50 per share and fiscal 2009's earnings per share before one-time costs associated with the transaction of between $3.62 and $3.72.

Post-integration, we are committed to a long-term strategic net sales growth of 6% with acquisitions continuing to play a key role. We expect long-term strategic earnings per share growth of 8% or greater. Our earnings per share will grow at a slightly higher rate than net income with share repurchases. We remain committed to the long-term view of managing our brands and remain confident in the opportunity for profitable growth that they offer.

At Smucker's, we feel privileged to be invited to family tables everyday. We value our relationship with consumers and take seriously the confidence they place in us to provide the highest quality, best tasting foods for their families. It is our ongoing quest to evolve the categories that we participate in by bringing consumers foods that are good and good for you, that are easier and more convenient to use and that bring a smile to their families. Folgers is a brand that has been nurtured with the exceptionally high standards of Procter & Gamble. We look forward to continuing Folgers rich history of being the leader in the coffee category. Now I would like to turn the call over to A.G. for comments from P&G.

FINAL TRANSCRIPT

A.G. Lafley - Procter & Gamble Chairman & CEO

Thank you, Richard and good morning, everyone. When P&G announced its intention to separate the coffee business back on January 31, we told our shareholders and employees that our goal was to maximize the after-tax value of the business and minimize EPS dilution. The agreement we are announcing with Smucker accomplishes both those objectives.

The coffee business will be separated from P&G and simultaneously merged with Smucker in a manner that is tax-free for P&G and its shareholders. We plan to finalize the transaction structure for the separation in the early fall of 2008 and we will notify shareholders of those details at that time.

This transaction creates value for P&G shareholders that would not have existed if we had continued on the path of creating a standalone company. Smucker has identified significant cost synergies that will be shared by the owners of both companies.

Folgers has been a great brand for P&G for 45 years. And the people working in the coffee business are truly outstanding. As Tim said, the Jif and Crisco experience has proven that this type of transaction is a recipe for success and I fully expect the people and the brands to flourish as part of Smucker. Now I would like to turn the call back to Tim for some closing remarks.

Tim Smucker - The J.M. Smucker Company Chairman & Co-CEO

Thank you, A.G. We look forward to getting to know the Folgers people as they work to build this new organization. As we prepare to merge the Folgers coffee business into Smucker during the fourth quarter of this calendar year, we have asked Vince Byrd to serve as President of the coffee business. Vince has been with Smucker for 31 years and is currently the Senior Vice President for our Consumer business, which includes general management responsibilities for our Smucker's, Jif and Hungry Jack businesses. He also has responsibility for our US retail sales team and is a member of our Board of Directors.

Of course, between now and the closing of the transaction, Jamie Egasti will continue to manage the Folgers business. So in summary, the addition of Folgers clearly aligns with our strategy and we are enthusiastic about adding another number one brand into our strong and growing portfolio of brands. Like Smucker, Folgers is a business rich in history and tradition and we look forward to the integration of the iconic brand and the talented employees into our company. The transaction is accretive to earnings with compelling financial benefits. And finally, this transaction brings significant value to both Procter & Gamble and Smucker shareholders.

As you know, this has and will continue to require a great deal of effort by many people throughout both companies. We believe the many common values shared by our organizations represent a great foundation for a smooth integration of the integrated of the talented Folgers employees and the market-leading brands into Smucker. We are confident in the future growth and opportunities for our company and our constituents, our consumers, customers, employees, suppliers, communities and our shareholders. Now I would like to turn the call over to Mark before we open to the Q&A.

Mark Belgya - The J.M. Smucker Company CFO

Thank you, Tim. As we prepare for the Q&A portion of the call, we would ask that you limit your questions to this transaction. If you have any questions on other company-related topics, please directly contact Investor Relations at either company after the call. Please keep in mind that Smucker is in its quiet period as it relates to its 2008 year-end results. Smucker will be releasing year-end earnings on June 19. We thank you for your time and now we will be happy to answer your questions.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Operator

(OPERATOR INSTRUCTIONS). Eric Katzman, Deutsche Bank.

Eric Katzman - Deutsche Bank Analyst

Hi, good morning, everybody. My congratulations. I guess if I am limited to one question, I guess the question would be, in terms of the structure of the deal, why what was the motivation behind the special dividend and is that essentially a means of offsetting what would otherwise be dilution to the Smucker shareholder?

Tim Smucker - The J.M. Smucker Company Chairman & Co-CEO

It's several factors. That's part of it. It is also the opportunity to recognize our loyal shareholders over many years and we think this is the right moment to do that. It does help equalize some of the valuation of the transaction, so both of those are key factors.

Eric Katzman - Deutsche Bank Analyst

Okay. So the special dividend I assume is that is taxable to the current shareholders?

Mark Belgya - The J.M. Smucker Company CFO

Yes, at the current rate.

Eric Katzman - Deutsche Bank Analyst

Okay, I will pass it on.

Operator

Eric Serotta, Merrill Lynch.

Eric Serotta - Merrill Lynch Analyst

Good morning. Just wondering whether you could talk a bit about the changed long-term growth targets for Smucker. Previously, you were talking about 8% organic I'm sorry 8% top-line growth and 8% EPS growth [if] that half coming from acquisitions. It looks like after the deal here, you are looking at 6% per year, including acquisitions on the top line. Wondering what you are ballparking the average contribution from acquisitions to be and then is the lower all-in target assumption of these typical tuck-in acquisitions that you do having a lower impact on the larger base or is it a function of the Folgers business being dilutive to Smucker's previous long-term organic top-line growth or some combination of the two?

Richard Smucker - The J.M. Smucker Company President & Co-CEO

Well, first of all, obviously we are almost doubling our size, so our base is going to be larger, so it is harder to grow, as you know, from a company of $5 billion in sales versus a company that is $2.5 billion in sales, but we still expect the bottom line to be able to leverage that. So we definitely expect that the bottom-line growth rate will be at or greater than our current growth rate of 8% plus. So we still expect the bottom line to grow faster.

FINAL TRANSCRIPT

Second is that we expect acquisitions to still contribute roughly half of our growth. Our core businesses have been growing between 3% to 4% a year, which includes share of market growth and new product growth and we think that is pretty solid growth rates. If you look back every year for the last 10 years, we have been able to grow our base business between 3% to 5%. We still expect that to be possible, especially with the brands that we have and also the concentration that we now have in the grocery stores. But it is primarily the fact that we are a larger company and it is just harder to grow the top line.

Eric Serotta - Merrill Lynch Analyst

Okay, but are you looking I presume that you are looking for Folgers to be growing less than 3% to 5% on the top line?

Richard Smucker - The J.M. Smucker Company President & Co-CEO

Well, our growth rates are

Eric Serotta - Merrill Lynch Analyst

Longer term?

Richard Smucker - The J.M. Smucker Company President & Co-CEO

All of our brands are roughly around 3% of the top line unless we have an acquisition to add to them, but we have been able to do that consistently.

Eric Serotta - Merrill Lynch Analyst

Okay, I will pass it on. Thanks a lot.

Operator

(OPERATOR INSTRUCTIONS). Cristina McGlone, Deutsche Bank.

Christina McGlone - Deutsche Bank Analyst

Good morning. I just wanted to go over the source of the synergies because with the Jif and Crisco transaction, there really weren't many synergies because I think the overhead stays with Proctor, so where do you expect to kind of garner this $80 million?

Mark Belgya - The J.M. Smucker Company CFO

Christina, this is Mark. As we went through the last several weeks, we have looked at the organization. I think it is a combination. Clearly as a larger company, we [think] in great detail about what scale will bring and we think there will be opportunities getting our cost of goods sold side through items, for example, such as volume purchasing. Also we have talked a long time about the infrastructure of existing Smucker being able to support a larger company. So we do see synergies coming in our administrative area as we take advantage of our current infrastructure. Obviously, there will be opportunities as we move forward, but I would say the majority, or at least the larger portion of it, are more in the administrative, but we have identified some across our organization in all functional areas.

Tim Smucker - The J.M. Smucker Company Chairman & Co-CEO

And we should say, Christina, we built these up from the bottom, bottom up from kind of a zero-based budgeting, so we feel very confident in those numbers.

Christina McGlone - Deutsche Bank Analyst

Okay, and even getting them by fiscal 2010 when you give the IMC synergies, it was a three-year time period, so this is a little accelerated?

Mark Belgya - The J.M. Smucker Company CFO

That's right. We would expect to see those pretty much in the first year.

Christina McGlone - Deutsche Bank Analyst

Okay, thank you.

Tim Smucker - The J.M. Smucker Company Chairman & Co-CEO

Full year.

Operator

And that will conclude today's question-and-answer session. I will turn the call back over to Mr. Smucker for closing remarks.

Tim Smucker - The J.M. Smucker Company Chairman & Co-CEO

Thank you very much for your attention. We appreciate your interest and we look forward to talking further. This is a great transaction and one thing I just want to close by saying thank you to the Procter & Gamble folks for this is a great brand that they have built and most importantly are the people that this transaction will bring into the Smucker fold. So we look forward to the transaction. All the best, have a great day.

Operator

That will conclude your conference for today. We do thank you for your participation. Everyone, please have a wonderful day.
