STERLING FINANCIAL CORPORATION OF SPOKANE, WASHINGTON,
ANNOUNCES DEFINITIVE AGREEMENT TO ACQUIRE KLAMATH FIRST BANCORP, INC.

Spokane, Washington and Klamath Falls, Oregon July 15, 2003 Sterling Financial Corporation (NASDAQ: STSA) and Klamath First Bancorp, Inc. (NASDAQ: KFBI) announced today that they have signed a definitive agreement for the merger of Klamath First Bancorp, Inc. with and into Sterling Financial Corporation.

The transaction, which is valued at approximately $147 million, is expected to close in the first quarter of 2004, pending shareholder and regulatory approval, and to be accretive to Sterling's earnings per share in 2004.

Under the terms of the merger agreement, which has been unanimously approved by the Boards of Directors of both companies, each share of Klamath common stock will be converted into 0.77 shares of Sterling common stock subject to certain conditions. Based upon the closing price for Sterling on July 14 of $26.55 per share, the consideration is equivalent to $20.44 per share of Klamath common stock. The parties have agreed to pay termination fees in the event the merger agreement is terminated under certain conditions. The exchange of shares is expected to be tax-free to the Klamath shareholders.

Based upon balance sheet data as of March 31, 2003, the combined company will have approximately $5.3 billion in total assets, deposits of approximately $3.4 billion, and shareholders' equity of approximately $388 million. Based on yesterday's closing price, the combined company will have a market capitalization of approximately $535 million.

Sterling's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Harold B. Gilkey, commented, "We are very pleased to welcome the employees, customers and investors of Klamath into the Sterling family. This merger is consistent with our previously stated growth plans to become the leading community bank in the region."

With the increase to approximately 143 branches serving Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and Montana, Sterling strengthens its position as a leading regional community bank and gives it the ability to extend its "Hometown Helpful" philosophy throughout communities in the region.

"The merger with Klamath is a perfect fit for Sterling," said Mr. Gilkey. "In addition to the financial aspects, Sterling and Klamath match up very well culturally. As a leading regional community bank we'll be able to build a bank for all of Oregon, a bank that offers the same products and services of a large bank while retaining the feel of a hometown bank."

Edgar Filing: KLAMATH FIRST BANCORP INC - Form 425

Mr. Gilkey expressed confidence that Klamath would be smoothly integrated into Sterling. "Our two institutions have complementary financial, organizational and philosophical aspects. Sterling has averaged one acquisition per year since 1998 and has successfully integrated every merged institution into Sterling. From our acquisition of 33 bank branches and related operations to the recent addition of five Empire branches in Montana, our back office is well-prepared for this merger," said Mr. Gilkey. "When two community banks join forces, the transition tends to be smooth since both institutions are used to operating with the focus on understanding the individual communities in which they do business."

According to Kermit K. Houser, President and CEO of Klamath, "This combination of companies is positive in every way. It accelerates our mutual desire to provide extensive coverage in the Northwest, as our existing geographic footprints are a perfect fit. Klamath's strong deposit base supports Sterling's strong loan growth and the combined banking products and offices add additional business options and customer convenience. The larger organization also provides numerous opportunities for Klamath First employees and our shareholders are receiving a premium over our stock price today and will have an opportunity for future growth with the larger company."

Rodney Murray, Chairman of Klamath First Bancorp, Inc. commented, "We are very pleased to be joining Sterling Financial Corporation. Becoming a part of a leading regional community bank will give Klamath the opportunity to accelerate our business plan and better serve the customers and communities we have served for nearly 70 years. I am very pleased that our customers will continue to receive the personalized service from our customer service staff, but at the same time will have access to a much wider array of products and services. In addition, Sterling's community-banking culture, local decision-making, strong commitment to employees and involvement in local communities carries on the traditions that Klamath has taken such pride in for so many years. "

According to Gilkey, "Sterling will continue local decision-making in Oregon. This will allow us to continue to deliver on our promise to customers of prompt, professional responses to their banking needs and our history of community involvement in these Oregon communities. Sterling intends to form an Oregon-area advisory board comprised of current Klamath board members to facilitate Sterling's further expansion in Oregon. In addition, Sterling will be adding one board position at the holding company and two seats on the Sterling Savings Bank board. Klamath board members will be asked to fill these positions."

Commenting further, Mr. Gilkey, stated, "This transaction is a win-win for the shareholders of both companies. The access to capital and other resources gives Sterling the opportunity to continue its regional growth. Additionally, the transaction reflects Sterling's long-term strategy of concentrating on its core businesses, including our ability to diversify loan portfolio opportunities across the region. Sterling welcomes and looks forward to a long-term opportunity for achievements and success with this acquisition."
