Re: Three Months and Nine Months Ended September 30, 2009 Unaudited Financial Statements

For the third quarter ended September 30, 2009, Chicago Board Options Exchange (CBOE) reported total revenues of $98.4 million, down 17 percent from the third quarter of 2008. Third-quarter 2009 income before income taxes of $32.8 million was down 44 percent from $58.5 million in the third quarter a year ago.

Third-quarter 2009 results reflect a challenging market recovery, making comparisons difficult with record results reported in last year's third quarter, when extraordinary market events resulted in record options trading volume. CBOE continues to focus on maintaining cost discipline while making prudent, targeted investments aimed at driving growth.

Edgar Filing: CBOE Holdings, Inc. - Form 425

Through the first nine months of 2009, total revenues were $306.3 million, down 4 percent from the year-ago period. Income before income taxes through nine months was $120.7 million, a 22-percent decrease versus the same period last year.

Review of Third-Quarter 2009 Financial Results

Total revenues for the third quarter decreased $19.5 million, or 17 percent, due mainly to declines in transaction fees and investment income, partially offset by higher revenue from other member fees and regulatory fees. The following summarizes the primary changes in total revenues for the quarter:

- Transaction fees decreased $22.4 million, or 23 percent, resulting from a 16-percent decline in trading volume and an 8-percent decrease in the average transaction fee per contract. Total options contracts traded for the quarter were 286.9 million compared with record volume of 341.8 million in last year's third quarter. CBOE's total average options contracts traded per day for the third quarter fell to 4.48 million versus last year's average of 5.34 million. The average total transaction fee per contract was $0.265 for the quarter, down from $0.288 in the third quarter of 2008. This decrease reflects a shift in the volume mix, with a lower percentage of CBOE's total volume coming from its higher-margin product categories. The lower average transaction fee per contract also reflects the impact of fee waivers implemented for certain transactions in response to competitive fee changes.
- Investment income was down $1.6 million in the quarter due to lower yields on investments resulting from significantly lower interest rates.
- The decreases were partially offset by a $2.1-million increase in other member fees resulting from temporary member access fees. Temporary member access fees assessed in the prior year were deferred and are being held in an escrow account pending the final resolution of the exercise right issue.
- Regulatory fees increased $2.5 million versus last year's third quarter, primarily due to a change in CBOE's regulatory fee structure. In the third quarter of 2008, CBOE eliminated its registered representative fee, which led to a decrease in regulatory fees. This fee was replaced with an options regulatory fee effective March 1, 2009.

Third Quarter Expense Analysis

Total expenses were $65.6 million for the third quarter of 2009, compared with $59.3 million for third-quarter 2008. The $6.3 million, or 11 percent, expense increase consisted primarily of the following:

- Trading volume incentives increased $4.1 million in the quarter due to high costs for a designated primary market maker (DPM) linkage program and a liquidity provider program. The DPM market linkage program reimburses DPMs for the cost of linking customer orders to markets at other exchanges. The liquidity provider rebate program provides incentives to market participants for executing orders at CBOE as opposed to routing to away markets.
- Employee costs were up $2.1 million, due mainly to headcount additions relating to C2; incremental costs for insurance benefits and higher expenses accrued for 2009 incentive awards resulting from a plan refinement that changed the timing of the expense recognition, impacting the quarterly year-over-year comparisons. For the full-year 2009, incentive awards are projected to be down compared with the prior year, based on lower earnings to date. CBOE had 596 employees at September 30, 2009, compared with 579 at the end of September 2008. This increase is attributable to employees hired to support C2, CBOE's new all-electronic exchange. C2 is expected to launch next year, pending regulatory approval.

- Expenses related to outside services increased $2.1 million from third-quarter 2008 primarily due to higher legal fees and an increase in consulting costs for systems and software development.
- These increases were partially offset by a $1.6-million decline in royalty fees versus last year's third quarter, resulting from lower trading volume in licensed products.

CBOE's operating margin for the quarter, representing income before taxes as a percentage of total revenues, decreased to 33.3 percent from 49.7 percent for the third quarter of 2008, reflecting a lower revenue base and higher expenses.

Net income for the third quarter fell 48 percent to $19.2 million from $36.7 million in last year's third quarter.

Overview of Year-To-Date 2009 Financial Results

For the first nine months of 2009, total revenues were down $13.4 million, or 4 percent. The most significant decreases in revenue occurred in volume-related transaction fees, investment income and other revenue, which decreased $20.8 million, $4.8 million and $3.0 million, respectively. These decreases were partially offset by higher revenue from other member fees and regulatory fees of $13.2 million and $2.6 million, respectively.

Total options trading volume through September 2009 declined 5 percent to 856.9 million contracts from 899.6 million contracts a year ago. CBOE's average options contracts traded per day was 4.56 million, down 4 percent versus the first nine months of 2008. The total average transaction fee per contract was $0.276 through September 2009, a 3-percent decrease from $0.286 for the nine months ended September 30, 2008.

Total expenses through the first nine months of 2009 were $185.7 million, an increase of $21.1 million, or 13 percent, compared with the prior year. This increase primarily resulted from higher costs related to trading volume incentives of $9.7 million, employee costs of $5.9 million, data processing of $1.6 million and outside services of $4.2 million. These increases were partially offset by a $2.1 million decrease in royalty fees.

CBOE's operating margin through September 30, 2009, was 39.4 percent compared with 48.5 percent for the nine months of 2008.

CBOE reported net income of $71.5 million, a decrease of 23 percent from $92.7 million in the same period a year ago.

Strong Balance Sheet and Liquidity Position

At September 30, 2009, CBOE had $348.9 million of available cash and cash equivalents on its balance sheet and no outstanding debt. In addition, at the end of September, the balance sheet included restricted cash of $26.9 million, which represents deferred revenue from access fees paid by temporary members. Working capital, defined as current assets minus current liabilities, was $339.3 million as of September 30, 2009, an increase of $18.7 million and $69.0 million compared with working capital at June 30, 2009 and December 31, 2009, respectively.

Edgar Filing: CBOE Holdings, Inc. - Form 425

Cash provided by operations was $17.9 million for the third quarter and $96.3 million for the first nine months of 2009. Capital expenditures were $8.7 million for the third quarter and $29.4 million year to date. The majority of capital spending supports CBOE's efforts to continually upgrade and enhance its systems capacity and capabilities, including hardware and capitalized software.
