3.2 Warning and explanation on projection of possible loss or material year-on-year change in the net profit from the beginning of the year to the end of the next reporting period

In the first quarter of 2008, the Group was affected by factors such as material increases in crude oil processing costs and a mismatch thereof with petroleum product prices, thereby reporting an operating loss for the first quarter of 2008. Accordingly, it is estimated that the Group's overall results for the period ending at 30 June 2008 will report a substantial decrease (For the six months ended 30 June 2007, the Group's net profit attributable to the Company's shareholders under China Accounting Standards for Business Enterprises amounted to RMB1,751,897,000).

APPENDIX I

The amendments to the Company's Remuneration System for Independent Directors were approved with 12 votes in favor, 0 vote against and 0 abstaining vote in the 27th meeting of the fifth session of the Board. Details of the amendments are as follows:

REMUNERATION SYSTEM FOR INDEPENDENT DIRECTORS

Original system

To thoroughly enforce Guidelines for Establishing the Independent Directors System for Listed Companies and to regulate the remuneration system for the independent directors of Sinopec Shanghai Petrochemical Company Limited, this system is devised at the proposal of the Remuneration and Appraisal Committee of the Board upon review by the Board of the Company.

1. Principles on Determining the Remuneration Rate

1. Major principles on determining the remuneration rate include the market price level of the region and the sector, the size of the Company and individual performance;
2. Applying the high-end of the guiding market labor prices for similar workers announced by Shanghai Labor and Social Security Bureau

2. Remuneration Rate and Distribution Method

The remuneration rate for independent directors is RMB80,000 per year with two payments each year. One payment will be made in each of the first half and the second half of the year.

3. Others

1. Upon implementation of the system, the Board may raise opinions on adjusting the remuneration rate for independent directors in accordance with items such as appraisals and the Company's results;
2. The system shall be implemented upon review and approval at the general meeting.

To be amended as

Pursuant to the relevant requirements of China Securities Regulatory Commission's Guidelines for Establishing the Independent Directors System for Listed Companies and the Company's Work System for Independent Directors and the Articles of Association, this system is devised at the proposal of the Remuneration and Appraisal Committee of the Board upon review by the Board of the Company.

1. Principles on Determining the Remuneration Rate

1. Major principles on determining the remuneration rate include the market price level of the region and the sector, the size of the Company and individual performance;
2. Applying the high-end of the guiding market labor prices for similar workers announced by Shanghai Labor and Social Security Bureau

2. Remuneration Rate and Distribution Method

1. The subsidy rate for independent directors is RMB150,000 per year with two payments each year. One payment will be made in each of the first half and the second half of the year;
2. The aforementioned subsidy rate is on a pre-tax basis; the personal income tax on such subsidy will be uniformly deducted from the amount and paid by the Company according to the personal income tax rate.

3. Others

1. The travel expenses incurred by independent directors for attending Board meetings and general meetings and the necessary expenses incurred during the discharge of duties as stipulated by the Articles of Association shall be reimbursed by the Company as reported;
2. Upon implementation of the system, the Board may raise opinions on adjusting the remuneration rate for independent directors in accordance with items such as appraisals and the Company's results;
3. The system shall be implemented upon review and approval at the general meeting.

APPENDIX III

PRINCIPAL TERMS AND BENEFITS OF SHORT-TERM COMMERCIAL PAPERS

To provide more information to the shareholders on the short-term commercial papers to be issued by the Company, we set out below the principal terms and benefits of the short-term commercial papers:

A. Principal terms of the short-term commercial papers

Amount raised:	Up to a maximum aggregate principal amount of RMB2 billion
Terms of Maturity:	Not more than 365 days from the actual date of issue
Interest rate:	To be decided by reference to the prevailing market rate of short-term commercial papers of similar maturity at the time of issuance, which generally is below the prevailing lending rate announced by the People's Bank of China
Intended investors:	Domestic institutional investors approved by the People's Bank of China, which will not be a connected person as defined under the Rules Governing the Listing of Securities on The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited
Underwriting:	A lead underwriter recognised by the People's Bank of China will be appointed to take the lead to form an underwriting syndicate to underwrite commercial papers issued by the Company, which will not be a connected person as defined under the Rules Governing the Listing of Securities on The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited
Conditions:	(i) Shareholders' approval at a general meeting; (ii) Notice on Registration Acceptance issued by National Association of Financial Market Institutional Investors; and (iii) Entering into an underwriting agreement in terms to the satisfaction of the Board
Use of proceeds:	The proceeds will form part of the Company's working capital, and will be used for crude oil procurement and as a capital reserve
Expected date of issuance:	May be issued in multiple tranches within 12 months from the date of approval by the People's Bank of China and subject to the discretionary decision of the Board in view of market conditions and the financing needs of the Company

B. Benefits of the short-term commercial papers

Short-term commercial papers are relatively new means of short-term fund raising in the People's Republic of China. Given the interest rate of short-term commercial papers is more favourable than short-term bank loans and the approval procedure for issuance of short-term commercial papers is not complicated, the directors are of the view that the issue of the short-term commercial papers is in the interests of the Company and its shareholders as a whole.

Table of Contents

4. If you intend to vote for any resolution, please put a in the column. If you intend to vote against the resolution, please put a in the column. If no instruction is given, the appointed proxy shall have the discretion to vote.
5. In respect of resolution 7(1), (2) regarding election of directors, as required under Article 123 in the articles of association and Article 64 in the Rules of Procedure for Shareholders' General Meeting, if the controlling shareholder of the Company exercises more than 30% of control over votes, when resolutions are proposed for the election of directors at a shareholders' general meeting, the cumulative voting system shall be adopted. Thus, where two or more directors will be elected in a shareholders' general meeting, each share held by a shareholder shall have voting rights equal to the total number of candidates proposed for election. A shareholder may either elect one candidate with all of his/her/its shares, or vote separately for several persons; meanwhile, independent directors and other Board members are to be elected separately. Currently, China Petroleum & Chemical Corporation, the Company's controlling shareholder has more than 30% of control over the Company, whilst as more than two directors shall be elected in the meeting. In this election, independent directors and other Board members will be elected separately. To ensure first your voting right is adequately exercised, the Notes adopt resolution 7(1) as an example to briefly explain matters that should be aware of when completing the vote under the annual/ative voting system (matters to be aware of the resolution 7(2) are the same as vote for resolution 7(1)). Please refer to the following explanation on resolution 7(2) and (3) and fill in your intended votes:
- (i) In respect of resolution 7(1), each share you held has equal votes in relation to the total number of candidates for election as non-independent directors. For example, if you possess one million shares, and the total number of candidates for election as directors is four, the total number of shares for which you have the voting rights under resolution 7(1) will be eight million shares (being one million shares x 8 = eight million shares).
- (ii) Please state the number of shares in the column for and/or against the voting rights of which you give to each of the candidates for election as non-independent directors. Please note that you may either vote for each candidate with equal number of votes, or all your votes as represented by the shares held in for the election of one particular candidate as non-independent director, or certain number of votes as represented by the shares held for the selection of certain candidates (one, two, three to eight, similar hereinafter) as non-independent director. For example, if you own one million shares, and eight directors should be elected in this election, the total number of shares for which you have the voting rights under resolution 7(1) is eight million shares. Out of the 8 million shares, you can either share your voting rights in every one million shares on average to eight candidates for election as non-independent directors (vote for or against). All of the eight million votes may also be voted by you as to one particular candidate as non-independent director (either for or against), or, 4,000,000 votes as to candidate A (either for or against), 2,000,000 votes as to candidate B (either for or against), 1,500,000 votes as to candidate C (either for or against), and the balance of 500,000 shares as to candidate D (either for or against) as non-independent director.
- (iii) After you have concentrated the voting rights represented by all of the shares held by you on a certain number of candidates for director, you may not exercise your voting rights again in respect of other candidates for non-independent director. That is, the sum of all the voting rights you voted for or against the eight candidates for election as non-independent directors shall not exceed the total number of voting rights represented by the shares held by you.
- (iv) Please note with particular attention that, if the total number of votes you have exercised and concentrated on a certain number of candidates for non-independent directors exceeds the total number of voting rights represented by the shares held by you, your votes shall be become void, and you will be deemed to be abstained from voting. If the total number of votes you have exercised and concentrated on a certain number of candidates for non-independent director is less than the total number of voting rights represented by the shares held by you, your vote shall still be deemed as valid, and those votes not exercised will be deemed as those abstained from voting. For example, if you own one million shares, and eight non-independent directors should be elected in this election, the total number of votes as represented by your shares under resolution 7(1) will be four million: (a) if you have stated 8 million shares in the column for (or against) in the cumulative voting system in favour of one particular candidate for non-independent director, then your voting rights are fully utilised, and you do not have any votes as to other candidates for non-independent directors. If you have stated the number of shares (other than 0 shares) in other corresponding columns under resolution 7(1), then all your votes in respect of the resolution 7(1) will be deemed to be void, or (b) if you have stated 5,000,000 shares in the column for (or against) in the cumulative voting system in favour of candidate A, and 2,000,000 shares in the column for (or against) in the cumulative voting system in favour of candidate B, then your votes as represented by such seven million shares shall be valid, whilst the remaining one million shares without declaring intentions on voting shall be deemed as abstain from voting.

- (v) Where the total number of votes in favour won by a candidate for non-independent director exceeds one-half of the total number of shares with voting rights represented by shareholders attending the general meeting (based on the non-cumulative number of shares) and the total number of votes in favour exceeds the total number of opposing votes, that candidate will be elected as a non-independent director. If the number of non-independent directors so elected exceeds the number of positions available for non-independent director, then those receiving the most number of votes in favour shall be elected a non-independent directors (provided that where those receiving relatively less votes in favour have an equal number of votes in favour, which would cause the number of persons elected to exceed the positions available, then such candidates will be deemed to have not been elected). If an insufficient number of non-independent directors are elected at the shareholders' general meeting to fill the positions available, then a further vote will be conducted for the remaining positions, until such point as all positions for non-independent director have been elected.
 - (vi) Where the general meeting holds a new round of election for non-independent directors in accordance with the requirements set out in (v) above, the cumulative votes of the shareholders shall be re-calculated based on the number of non-independent directors elected in each round of election.
6. This form of proxy must be signed by you or your proxy duly authorised in writing or, in the case of a corporation, must be either under its common seal or under the hand of an officer or attorney duly authorised. If this form of proxy is signed by your proxy, it must be certified by a notary.
