Filed by Constellation Energy Group, Inc.

Pursuant to Rule 425 under the Securities Act of 1933 and deemed filed pursuant to Rule 14a-12 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934

Subject Company: Constellation Energy Group, Inc.

Commission File No. 333-175162

On December 5, 2011, Constellation Energy and Exelon Corporation issued the following joint press release related to their proposed merger.

EXELON AND CONSTELLATION STRENGTHEN MERGER COMMITMENTS

Enhanced benefits package now offers 175 MW of new generation, including 55 MW of renewables, creating more than 2,400 jobs

CHICAGO AND BALTIMORE (December 5, 2011) Exelon Corporation (NYSE:EXC) and Constellation Energy Group (NYSE:CEG) today filed a brief with the Maryland Public Service Commission (PSC) that increases the companies' commitments related to the proposed merger, which is currently under review by the PSC, and offers an enhanced package of benefits, totaling a more than $445 million investment in Maryland, projected to create more than 2,400 jobs in the state.

We listened carefully to questions posed by the Commissioners and input from interested parties, and we responded by enhancing the already robust package of benefits that the merger will provide to Maryland, said Exelon President and COO Christopher M. Crane. We think we have brought forth a good package that will benefit BGE customers, result in a stronger, better-protected BGE, and provide an infusion of thousands of jobs and hundreds of millions of dollars into the Maryland economy.

In today's filing, Exelon and Constellation committed to:

Build 175 megawatts (MW) of new generation in Maryland, including 55 MW of wind or solar capacity, which would increase the state's total renewable capacity by more than 30 percent. The new generation projects will be built within the state, for a total projected investment of between $220-280 million.

Construct not renovate a brand-new Constellation headquarters building in Baltimore, adding more than 1,100 jobs into Maryland's economy through direct, indirect and induced effects, for a total projected investment of $95-120 million.

Allowing BGE to retain its capital in lieu of paying dividends to Exelon through 2014 to ensure BGE can continue to support its significant level of investment in key customer and reliability-related initiatives.

Ensuring a majority of BGE's board of directors reside or have a principal place of business in Maryland.

Enhancing ring-fencing by adding to what is already the gold standard in the industry as well as increased corporate governance measures.

The investment of more than $445 million in Maryland as a result of the merger also consists of the previously announced $112 million from a $100 one-time rate credit for BGE residential customers; $15 million for the Maryland PSC to use directly for the benefit of BGE customers; and $4 million to support the EmPower Maryland Energy Efficiency Act.

In addition, the companies have committed to maintain charitable giving at an average level of $7 million per year for at least 10 years, for a total of $70 million.

In addition to the companies' merger filing with the PSC, Exelon and Constellation made other regulatory filings in support of their proposed merger. On Aug. 3, the Public Utility Commission of Texas approved the merger. Other regulatory approvals required include the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the New York State Public Service Commission and the Department of Justice. Shareholders of both companies overwhelmingly approved the transaction on Nov. 17. Pending all required approvals, Exelon and Constellation expect to complete their merger in early 2012.

About Exelon

Cautionary Statements Regarding Forward-Looking Information

Except for the historical information contained herein, certain of the matters discussed in this communication constitute forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Securities Act of 1933 and the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, both as amended by the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Words such as may, will, anticipate, estimate, expect, project, intend, plan, believe, target, and terms of similar substance used in connection with any discussion of future plans, actions, or events identify forward-looking statements. These forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to, statements regarding benefits of the proposed merger of Exelon Corporation (Exelon) and Constellation Energy Group, Inc. (Constellation), integration plans and expected synergies, the expected timing of completion of the transaction, anticipated future financial and operating performance and results, including estimates for growth. These statements are based on the current expectations of management of Exelon and Constellation, as applicable. There are a number of risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from the forward-looking statements included in this communication regarding the proposed merger. For example, (1) the companies may be unable to obtain regulatory approvals required for the merger, or required regulatory approvals may delay the merger or result in the imposition of conditions that could have a material adverse effect on the combined company or cause the companies to abandon the merger; (2) conditions to the closing of the merger may not be satisfied; (3) an unsolicited offer of another company to acquire assets or capital stock of Exelon or Constellation could interfere with the merger; (4) problems may arise in successfully integrating the businesses of the companies, which may result in the combined company not operating as effectively and efficiently as expected; (5) the combined company may be unable to achieve cost-cutting synergies or it may take longer than expected to achieve those synergies; (6) the merger may involve unexpected costs, unexpected liabilities or unexpected delays, or the effects of purchase accounting may be different from the companies' expectations; (7) the credit ratings of the combined company or its subsidiaries may be different from what the companies expect; (8) the businesses of the companies may suffer as a result of uncertainty surrounding the merger; (9) the companies may not realize the values expected to be obtained for properties expected or required to be divested; (10) the industry may be subject to future regulatory or legislative actions that could adversely affect the companies; and (11) the companies may be adversely affected by other economic, business, and/or competitive factors. Other unknown or unpredictable factors could also have material adverse effects on future results, performance or achievements of Exelon, Constellation or the combined company. Discussions of some of these other important factors and assumptions are contained in Exelon's and Constellation's respective filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), and available at the SEC's website at www.sec.gov, including: (1) Exelon's 2010 Annual Report on Form 10-K in (a) ITEM 1A.
