Vale obtains approval to acquire Corumbá asset

Rio de Janeiro, September 11, 2009 Vale S.A. (Vale) announces that it obtained the approval of the Conselho de Defesa Nacional CDN, the Brazilian National Defense Council, to acquire the Corumbá iron ore mining operations, located in state of Mato Grosso do Sul, Brazil. The conclusion of the acquisition is still subject to certain conditions, which shall be fulfilled by the acquirer, Vale, and the seller, Rio Tinto Plc and other entities controlled thereby (Rio Tinto).

In January 2009, Vale entered into a purchase and sale agreement with Rio Tinto to acquire iron ore and potash assets through an all-cash transaction. The price to be paid for the iron ore assets - mining operation and associated logistics assets, including port and barges amounts to US$ 750 million. The acquisition of the potash assets has already been concluded.

Corumbá produced 2.0 million metric tons (Mt) of iron ore in 2008. It is a world-class asset, with high Fe content and rich in direct reduction lump ores, a highly valued type of iron ore that is becoming increasingly scarce around the world. The logistics assets enable Corumbá to be 70% self-sufficient in the transportation of iron ore down the Paraguay river.

Corumbá is located near our Urucum iron ore and manganese operations. There are potential synergies to be exploited, through augmented asset and portfolio flexibility, lower administrative and logistics costs and rationalization of the use of reserves.
